Rebels Suffers 33 To 13 Loss

The Altavista Generals defeated the hometown Rebels 33 to 13 last Friday night. The loss leaves Appomattox with a 3-3-1 record in Group II, District IV competition.

Altavista opened the game kicking off to Appomattox. The Rebles worked up field, but soon were forced to kick. Altavista took the ball on their own twenty-yard line and with a series of plays drove to the Rebel's goal line. It appeared as if they were sure to score, but on the next play the General's back fumbled and half-back Gene Buchanan pounced on the loose ball.

Later in the quarter Altavista made their second bid for a score, but this attempt was brought to an abrupt end when Mike Mitchell intercepted a pass on the Appomattox twenty yard line.

Altavista's Phil Lanier threw three touchdown passes and returned an interception 40 yards for another TD. The first was on a pass to Dan Justice and the other two were passes to James West.

The Rebels first TD came in the second quarter when quarterback, Sammy Carter, threw a fourteen yard pass to Wilfred Rogers. The extra point attempt failed. The halftime score was Altavista 13 Appomattox 6.

During the half the Appomattox High School Band presented a special performance. The half-time activites were highlighted by the crowning of the 1963 Homecoming Queen. The AHS principal, Mr. Frank Chechek, crowned Miss Jane Williams Queen and her escort Mr. Dickie Williams, King.

At the opening of the second half the Rebels kicked off to the visiting Generals. The Generals drove to the Appomattox eight yeard line and cashed in on the next play when Dean Brown sprinted eight yards for the score. Later the Rebels worked their way to the Altavista ten, but lost possession on account of fumbles. Appomattox forced and finial tally near the end of the third quarter. Sammy Carter took the pass from the Center and faded to the left side and fired a pass to Mike Mitchell. The PAT was good on a pass from Carter to Dicky Smith.

Altavista pushed their lead scoring thirteen 'unlucky' points in the last quarter. That is unlucky for the Rebels.

This ballgame marked the end of another season and the last high school appearance for 17 Appomattox seniors. These players are: Gene Buchanan, Mike Steele, Jimmy Burke, Mike Mitchell, Doug Mitchell, Wayne Phelps, G. H. Jamerson, Dickie Williams, Joe Terry, Charles Martin, Jimmy Martin, David Reid, Lawrence Haley, Joe Mayberry, Richard [illegible], Torrence, and [illegible].

The Times-Virginian would like to salute these men for fine playing and sportsmanship.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS
BY DR. KENNETH J. FONEMAN

WritingOnHearts

Lesson for November 17, 1963

Bible Material: Acts 16:10-40; II Corinthians 1 through 4.
Devotional Reading: II Corinthians 4:7-15.

What was the greatest single influence in your life? Change that word "was" to "is" and leave out the word "single." If you like. It still is a question to think about. Most people, if they answer that question, would say truthfully that some particular person, perhaps now dead, was the strongest single influence. Or they might mention several names. But they probably would be names, not things. Everyone of us may be at the other end, too. How many lives have known your influence in some way? How many lives would have been different if it had not been for you? These are sobering thoughts.

The fact is we all are engaged, often without trying or thinking particularly about it, in influencing something, good or bad, on the hearts of all we meet. Thinking about us is (for the people we have known) like getting a letter, bitter or gay, serious or silly as the case may be. Somebody else's handwriting is on every letter.

Though us the fragrance

The Christian above all has a responsibility that many have written on others' hearts shall be recognizably Christian. But what is "Christian"? Paul mentions in the passage chosen for this week three points by which a Christian person, and Christian influence, can be identified. Paul did not mind mixing his metaphors, and neither should we. There is a gloriously many-colored beauty about the Christian character, like an old-fashioned garden. First of all, a Christian is one through whom the "fragrance of the knowledge" of Christ spreads everywhere. In plainer English, a Christian is one who does not leave others indifferent to Christ, but whose life makes others want to know the secret of the "fragrance" (Paul's word) of Christ. Second, a Christian is sincere, he is what he claims to be. Third, a Christian is a man of confidence not in himself but in God.

A letter from Christ

Paul was not an overmodest man. If credit was due him, he took it. Yet he never claims too much. Paul knew very well that he was perhaps the one most influential Christian in that part of the Roman empire. He knew he would be remembered all their life long by those converts of his in Corinth and other cities. Yet he does not claim credit for the handwriting on the hearts of those he had won for Christ. Indelible was the writing; but is was not his own. You (he said to his friends) are a letter from Christ, written not with ink, with the Sprit of the living God.

You do not have to be a theologian to see what Paul is driving at. Every Christian is part of the communication between God and the world. Every Christian, so far as he is Christian (and no one 100 percent), expresses and makes clear God's will and word for the situations in which he lives. Then is every Christian a sort of little Pope, infallibly able to dictate God's last word in every situation and problem of life?

Delivered by us

Not by any means. Not even the Pope in Rome makes claims so sweeping as all that. We have to face the fact that men who are perhaps equally Christians-by-intention do not always agree, perhaps almost never. Paul says elsewhere that we have this treasure (and he meant the message of God) in earthenware vessels. And about the handwriting of the Spirit on the hearts of the Corinthians, he says it was "delivered by us" and Paul does not claim that he could never be mistaken. The Corinthians, moreover, were themselves farther from perfection than Saint Paul was. The letter of Christ was written on the hearts of men who (on Paul's own showing) were also of all sorts of sins. The handwriting of the Spirit gets rubbed down more or less as the letters are passed on. So no Christian's writing on your heart or on your grateful memory should be confused with direct contact with God himself. For every Christian has the same privilege and the same need of the Spirit as the greatest Christians have had. Time and distance may carry our friends far away, but the Spirit is always here. He who wrote, writes still today.

Pastor Speaks

ATTENTION PLEASE!

A business executive listened with eyes closed in a relaxed position, as an appointed expert made a report of a business opportunity in a certain territory.

The instant the report was finished he opened his eyes, asked a few questions, and made his final decision. He was able to arrive at conclusions promptly because he had relaxed, completely shutting out the distracting sights and thoughts, and had concentrated fully on what was being said to him.

The farmer was trying to get the ole mule" to pull the plow in the newground. After using several superlatives (unpublishable) he gave up in exasperation. A farmer friend came along and was told of the ordeal. He offered to help. The farmer said, "go ahead; I can't do anything with him!" The friend took the "single tree" (known to every farmer of horse and plow days) and hit the mule over the head. "What in the world are you doing?" asked the farmer. "I am trying to get his attention!", he replied.

The Psalmist (46:10) after giving a description of the ragings of the world around and within heard the voice of God say, "Be still and know that I am God. I am exhalted among the nations".

There are many ways God gets our attention. One is to allow us to get so frustrated from the involvements of the world., that we are thrown flat of our backs. The only way we can look is up. Too often we assume the role of God, and tell everybody how to run their lives, and we find the same thing happens to us as it did to the farmer and the mule. God does not actually use the "single tree", but "lets" us get knocked in the head to get our attention — this is the only way you can stop some people.

Sometimes God uses the "single tree" method in dealing with nations. If they will not listen one way he may employ another — and often this "knocking down" comes through our enemies. I don't understand the theological problems in this kind of treatment, but if you doubt God's activity in these ways sometimes, perhaps you had better make a fresh study of God's dealings with Isreal: He used ancient king Cyrus of Persia to bring Israel to her knees, and then punished Cyrus for doing it.

Then, at times the sorrows and physical realities brings us to attention. We are forced to stop and take a good look up. These things enrich or embitter us, depending upon the attention God gets in them.

There are so-called "dead ends" streets that God uses at times to get our attention. We try everything, self - satisfaction and gratification through the wrong use of the natural drives in our lives. We may spend our time and devote our interest to the persuits of sex — so many do — or gambling, or drinking, or even work. These without God's purpose will lead to a dead end street. God can only speak when we are in position to listen. In order to get some to listen, he has to first get their attention.

Elijah, one of the all-time greats of God and the world in which he lived, became too self-assured as a results of his activity with king Ahab of Israel. He had won him to the Lord and it so charged him with enthusiasm that he thought that all hardened people would hear him. But he was shocked back to reality when Jezebel, Ahab's wife, put him to flight. Down in a hole at ancient Horeb God spoke again and Elijah listened. God works in many ways, and sometimes they look mysterious to us, to get our attention.

Attention please! God is still speaking, through His Spirit, to his people in innumberable ways. It's my sincere conviction that he is seeking to do so through our churches.

Make it a practice to attend the church of your choice. Let the Lord Christ speak to you through it.

NO COMPONENT DAMAGING HEAT
This magnificent instrument has a wider, better tonal range than most organs. It gives you more playing versatility and greater reliability than other more expensive organs. It is the only modestly priced electronic organ that has no tubes whatsoever yet produces more music power (20 watts) than expensive organs.
